

MARYLAND MOB SEEKS TO FREE LYNCH SUSPECTS

May Close Chicago Stock Yards Tomorrow Afternoon

RECEIPTS WILL STOP IF STRIKE IS NOT SETTLED

Dept. Of Agriculture Reports Strikers Control Situation

Chicago, Nov. 28—(AP)—The Chicago Union Stock Yards will be closed to all shipments of livestock at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon if the present strike is not settled by that time, officials of the livestock exchange announced today after a conference with strike leaders.

The strikers agreed to permit packers and commission men to clean up the livestock received today, providing it was done without the importation of outside workers. The commission men in turn agreed not to accept livestock after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The strikers and representatives of the yards companies against whom the strike was called are meeting with representatives of the NRA regional board of labor at 2 o'clock this afternoon in an effort to settle the strike amicably.

Receipts Billed Direct
Most of today's receipts were billed direct to packing plants where unloading operations were halted when strikebreakers became terrified and abandoned their jobs.

The agreement means that white collar workers from the commission firms will again unload and care for the supplies on hand.

The yards presented a holiday appearance as the live stock handlers strike continued to grip trade with a paralyzing grasp.

Pickets were flung about the main entrances of the huge yard, but aside from occasional arguments with workers entering or leaving had little to do but promenade before the watchful eyes of policemen.

Trucks Absent
Trucks, the source of much of yesterday's confusion and tumult, were absent. Only about 100 head of livestock were hauled in by the rubber-tired carriers. Yesterday more than 700 of them clogged the streets near the yards as they waited to unload.

Arrivals by railroad early totaled 399 carloads with less than 100 unloaded at an early hour. Commission men were struggling with the problem as yesterday, with crews of salesmen and white collar workers. A truck was made yesterday under the terms of which stock could be unloaded and fed by volunteer crews without interference from the strikers, but this expired at 8 o'clock this morning.

Major Packers Unaffected
The hog run of 20,000 head carried 15,000 direct to packing plants. The major packers, Swift, Wilson, Armour and Cudahy have never recognized the striking union and have their own handling crews, generally members of a company union. The direct shipments were taken care of handsily, but the others were being unloaded as fast as possible and locked up. There was no market today.

The United States Department of Agriculture issued the following statement regarding the strike at 10:45 today:

"Local situation in complete control of strikers. Strike-breakers unloading trains packer direct hogs were intimidated and quit work leaving liberal portion of packer direct receipts today in cars. This applies also to the moderate supply of carloads consigned to commission firms. Many loads of carloads of show cattle in chutes, but commission men unwilling to further aggravate the situation by moving stock from chutes to pens for the present. Tie-up now is complete. Local committees of commission men and strikers are still in session."

Dixon Interested in Thanksgiving Broadcast From Chicago

Dr. Perry J. Stackhouse, pastor of the First Baptist church of Chicago, who spends his summers in Dixon with his son, Dr. Sterling Stackhouse, and Dr. Frederick C. Grant, Dean of the Western Theological Seminary since 1927, who was pastor of St. Luke's church in this city from 1915 to 1917, will collaborate with Dr. Jacob Singer, rabbi of Temple Mizpah, Chicago, in broadcasting a special Thanksgiving service from station WGN Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. In addition to the short addresses by these three noted Chicagoans there will be music by the choir of Mizpah Temple.

INDICT POSTMISTRESS
Chicago—Bond of $1500 was posted by Mrs. Amy A. Thomas, 50, former postmistress at Kaneville, said by government officials to have been indicted on a charge of misusing $374.50 of postal funds. She is the mother of five children.

$7,500 GIVEN TO LEE COUNTY FOR CWA PAYROLLS

Lester Wilhelm and H. G. Byers to Hand Funds for Govt.

Local unemployed were still unable to register for work on the various projects in the city and county this morning on account of the failure to receive the proper registration blanks from the Federal Civil Works Administration headquarters in Chicago. Registrar Tim Sullivan was unable to predict when the blanks would be received.

Lester Wilhelm and Howard G. Byers of the Dixon National bank have been named assistant disbursing officers for the Federal administration according to word received at the Dixon headquarters this morning. They will handle the payrolls of the Federal unemployment program in Lee county, and notice received last evening stated that the sum of $7,500 had been allocated for the program in this county.

By this arrangement it is expected that those in charge of the various work projects will be able to make up their payrolls and that checks will be issued at an early date.

Two projects coming under the civil works administration program requisitioned last Saturday by the city of Amboy have met with the approval of the federal headquarters in Chicago and several men will begin work in the morning. Mayor Doty went to Chicago Friday and personally presented the projects.

Amboy Projects

One of these calls for the repairing and resurfacing with crushed stone of about 20 blocks of streets within the city limits. The second provides for extensive improvements at the Green River park which forms a section of the old county fair grounds. Here the project provides for the removal of tree stumps, trimming trees, building new roads and a general landscaping program which is intended to materially improve the popular park in the east city limits of Amboy.

County Superintendent of Highways Fred Leake after working with the members of the road and bridge committee Sunday and Monday, completed the revised program formulated by Lee county and went to Chicago this morning to present the new program. This provides for the resurfacing of about 32 miles of county and township highways throughout the county, giving approximately one mile to each of the 22 townships.

LIQUOR LAW FOR DIXON COMES UP FRIDAY EVENING

Council Recessed to Plan Ordinance to Control Hard Drinks

The regular weekly session of the city council last evening was recessed until Friday evening, Dec. 1 for the purpose of discussing and drafting a suitable liquor ordinance for the city of Dixon. At the meeting last evening, Mayor G. C. Dixon called the attention of the council to the importance of such an ordinance, and said:

"The vote of the state and the nation has brought about a situation which makes it necessary that this council pass an ordinance on the subject of intoxicating liquors. The only ordinance the city now has is the one which pertains to the sale of beer. One week from tomorrow at noon, the law of this state as in its present condition, permits the sale of liquor without being molested, unless there is an ordinance by the city which will regulate this condition. Customs have changed greatly during the last 15 years so as not to apply comply with the present day conditions, and it is necessary that this council pass some kind of a regulation."

Police Kept Busy For An Hour Last Evening; Three Calls In That Time Result In Three Drunks Being Jailed

Members of the police department were at a loss to know the cause for a celebration last evening when three calls were received between 6 and 7 o'clock, resulting in the arrest of three local men. George Strange, colored, was the first to be hauled to the station. He was reported lying in the street on Peoria avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets. This morning he was assessed a fine of $10 and costs on an intoxication charge and sent to jail by Justice W. T. Terrill.

About 6:30 the police were called to Jackson avenue where they took

ASK COURTS FOR PROHIBITION OF DRY LAW REPEAL

Distillers and Movie Industry Codes Allow Self Gov't

Washington, Nov. 28—(AP)—The administration believed its program for strict federal regulation of the liquor business was on the way to completion today with the signing of the distillers' code by the president and submission of a new government draft of a pact for brewers.

These codes, along with others for liquor importers, distributors and the like, are designed to regulate liquor after repeal—prohibitively on December 5—until Congress enact legislation. But there was pending today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court a suit intended to prevent proclamation of repeal.

It was filed by Canon William S. Chase, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, superintendent of the International Reform Federation, and others. Justice F. Dickinson Letis instructed Acting Secretary William Phillips to appear December 4 to show why a peremptory writ prohibiting the repeal proclamation should not be issued.

Questions Legality

Canon Chase's contention was that state conventions considering the repealing amendment were not representative or deliberative. Attorney General Mitchell already had ruled that repeal would be a complete effective without the state department proclamation.

Despite protests of distillers and brewers over provisions for federal control of production and prices. President Roosevelt said at Warm Springs that whisky makers had not formally signified assent to their code but the administration had assurances from leaders of the industry of their earnest desire to co-operate.

CONTROL LIQUOR MOVIES

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 28—(AP)—President Roosevelt today had the arm of government extended over the newly arising liquor industry and the powerful motion picture business.

In signing the codes covering these two groups the president last night enunciated policies permitting them to regulate themselves, but providing for strict federal supervision with power of veto and initiative.

In this principle some observers were inclined to see a policy of gradually returning to industry the right of self-regulation but with full government authority to supervise and direct.

Mr. Roosevelt acted quickly upon receipt of the liquor code to put it in form for his approval so that there will be some control of the whiskey traffic when the repeal amendment goes into effect next week.

Hollywood On Trial

For the motion picture industry, he provided a 90-day trial period during which he expects a "full report on excessive salaries or other emoluments, both as to artists and as to executives and their families." The president named as his first two representatives on the picture code authority Marie Dressler and Eddie Cantor, prominent actors, and A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard University.

No Movie Censorship

Accepting the recommendation of General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, the president refused federal censorship of the motion pictures. Mr. Roosevelt asked Mr. Lowell to "observe" the operations of the movie industry to keep its own rules in this respect.

Other Codes Signed

Other codes signed by the President last night covered: Investment bankers; wool felt industry; malleable iron industry; gas appliances, structural clay products, waterproofing, caulking and concrete flooring, warm air furnace.

JUDGE APPROVES MUTUALIZATION OF PEORIA LIFE

Ignored Objections of Director Illinois Insurance Dept.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 28—(AP)—Despite objections from the state Department of Insurance, Circuit Judge John M. Niehaus voted approval today for a plan for mutualization of the Peoria Life Insurance Company.

In its objection to the plan, the Department of Insurance asked that appointment of George Shurtliff as co-receiver for the company by Judge Niehaus be declared null and void.

Mutualization of the company would throw control into the hands of the policyholders, make it self-operating, and provide no equity for the stockholders. Ernest J. Palmer, chairman of the state department, has recommended re-insurance of policies after liquidation of all assets.

Judge Niehaus set Dec. 2 to rule on a motion by Palmer to expunge the record of Shurtliff's appointment as receiver. Such action would leave Charles B. O'Hern, sponsored by Palmer and other state officials, as receiver.

The judge announced a further hearing on Shurtliff's plan would be held Monday. In response to a question from Kadik, Judge Niehaus announced he also would hear other plans for the company's future at that time.

Dr. Alice Wynekoop Is Seriously Ill In Cook County Jail's Hospital

Jail Physician Reports Pneumonia is Threatened

Chicago, Nov. 28—(AP)—Physicians at the county jail reported today that Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop is seriously ill.

Wracked by a severe bronchial cough and menaced by her extremely high blood pressure, the elderly prisoner was described as in danger of pneumonia.

Immediately upon her confinement in the jail Saturday to await grand jury action for the killing of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, Dr. Alice was ordered to bed with medical attention. The jail physicians said she was in a state of nervous exhaustion because of the ordeal of questioning that followed Rheta's mysterious death in the Wynekoop operating room a week ago today.

Delay Presentation
Charles S. Dougherty, Assistant State Attorney, deferred placing evidence before the grand jury at least until tomorrow, when he expected to have ballistic evidence to support a charge of murder against Dr. Alice and an accessory charge against her son, Earle, the widow, also a county jail prisoner.

Dougherty said today he believed the state's evidence is sufficient to procure indictments. He added that there would be no action by the state today.

A report by ballistic experts today confirmed the accepted fact that the bullet taken from Rheta's body was fired from Dr. Alice's .32 calibre pistol, bought by Earle Nov. 11. The report also demonstrated that a bullet found imbedded in the wall of a bedroom was fired from a .38 calibre pistol.

Indicated Defense
A contention that her pretty daughter-in-law was slain by a robber was definitely indicated today as the defense Dr. Alice will make if and when she is brought to trial.

This revelation was made by Dr. Wynekoop's attorney, Frank Tyrrell, who said that his client would maintain that her statement that Rheta died accidentally from chloroform and that a bullet was fired into the girl's body to make the death look like it was caused by an intruder, was a fabrication.

"She knows nothing of all that stuff," Tyrrell said. "All she actually knows is what she told the police in the first place—that she found Rheta dead, discovered $6 missing, and called for medical aid and for an embalmer."

"First Statement True"
"Any statement she may have made to contradict her first one was given after she had been without sleep for 70 hours and in response to clever suggestions of police, prosecutors or their alienists. Her first statement is her true statement and that will be her defense."

The attorney also charged that the police had "bungled" the case from the beginning in suspecting Dr. Wynekoop instead of hunting for clues of the intruder mentioned by her, after Rheta's partially nude body was found last Tuesday on an operating table in the Doctor's surgery.

Dougherty, however, professed to be unperturbed by Dr. Wynekoop's repudiation of her statement. "We never believed it anyway," he said.

William Lindsey, Veteran Harness Maker, Is Called

William Lindsey, aged 64, for many years a harness maker at the W. H. Ware establishment in this city, and a resident of Dixon since he was nine years old, passed away at his home, 311 W. Chamberlain street, at 4 o'clock this morning, his death being caused by neuralgia of the heart, with which he had been afflicted for some time. Funeral services will be held at the Christian church Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. James A. Barnett officiating, and with burial in Oakwood cemetery. An obituary will be published later.

FAIL TO MAKE ANY PROGRESS ON LIQUOR ACT

Assembly Committees Seek Horner's Aid In Framing Bill

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28—(AP)—Unable to make progress, legislative leaders today called upon Gov. Henry Horner for guidance in adopting liquor control regulations.

Committees from both houses were called into joint session in an effort to get a two-thirds majority for a regulatory and revenue bill. The probability was that the joint committee would confer with Horner and try to combine the best features of the Ward city hall-home rule and the Shaw state commission control bills.

Assembly leaders already have asked the Governor's assistance in passing a bill before prohibition is repealed a week from today, if possible.

One of the men who had already conferred with the Governor, Senate majority leader Richey V. Graham, announced that Horner was "not particularly interested" in any of the control bills before the special session but was vitally interested in the enactment of sound control measures within a week.

While the House debated control plans today, an amendment to prohibit "treating" was offered by Rep. Sol Handy, Marshall Democrat. Specifically, he proposed that it should be illegal to buy a drink for persons other than members of the immediate family.

Objection was raised by Rep. Maurice O. Kalarah, Bloomington Republican. He wanted to add the words "or lady friend."

"I'm a bachelor," Kalarah said. "I don't want this law to require that my lady friend must pay for her own drinks."

Handy argued that Kalarah could solve the matter by marriage. Both Handy's amendment and Kalarah's amendment to the amendment were voted down.

PRAISE-CENSURE AFTER LYNCHING IN CALIFORNIA

Governors and Church Leaders Express Various Opinions

San Jose, Calif., Nov. 28—(AP)—Praise and censure for San Jose's mob vengeance on the kidnappers of Brooke L. Hart were met here today by official efforts to close the case and wipe out some of its furthest climax.

Governors of other states, church leaders and other prominent persons in all parts of the nation were among those who joined in lauding or condemning the mob's action and the approval of it by Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California.

Disapproval was expressed by Governor Henry H. Blood of Utah, Governor Henry Horner of Illinois and Governor Pollard of Virginia. Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma declared the "citizens would not have taken the law into their own hands" if speedier prosecutions in the courts were assured.

Calls Act Barbarous
Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York declared the lynchings were "more barbaric" than their victims. Henry Darlington, rector of the Church of Heavenly Rest, New York, sent congratulations to Governor Rolph "on the stand you have taken."

In view of Governor Rolph's declaration that he would immediately pardon any one convicted of the lynchings, officials frankly admitted the probability of prosecution was remote.

Men Boast of Their Part
Several young men were reported to have publicly boasted that they took leading parts in dragging Thomas H. Thompson and John M. Holmes, the accused kidnappers, from the county jail and hanging them in two elm trees in St.

Think Slayer Fired Body To Hide Crime

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 28—(AP)—Sheriff Jerome Munie today said he had obtained evidence indicating Mrs. Helen Hass, 46, was slain before fire destroyed the Hass cottage near Washington Park, last week. The sheriff's statement was the first intimation that Mrs. Hass' death was not accidental.

The slayer, the sheriff said, poured kerosene over the body and set it afire to destroy evidence of the crime.

Mrs. Hass, who had been ill for years, was the wife of Joseph Hass, a farmer. He was away seeking county relief funds when the fire started.

Sheriff Munie said he had found no motive for the slaying.

TROOPS ARREST FOUR ALLEGED LYNCHERS TODAY

Prevent Angry Crowd From Freeing Them: Take Them Away

Salisbury, Md., Nov. 28—(AP)—Troops sent by Governor Albert C. Ritchie to arrest nine suspects of the Princess Anne lynching today evacuated the armory here and started back for Baltimore after a mob of more than a thousand persons stormed the building and repulsed with tear gas both sides bayonets.

They took with them four men they arrested in early morning forays into nearby Somerset county where the lynching occurred October 18.

The troops had been ordered to Salisbury when State's Attorney John B. Robins of Somerset county declined to arrest men said by eye witnesses to have been members of the mob that lynched George Arwood, a Negro, accused of attacking an aged woman.

Five Evade Arrest
Three hundred of the soldiers were mobilized in Baltimore last night and arrived in Salisbury shortly before dawn—the arrests followed in short order, although five of those sought could not be found.

Soon after daybreak, small clusters of men could be seen gathering in the vicinity of the armory and by mid-morning the crowd had swelled to approximately 1,000.

They pressed forward, and the troops cut loose with a barrage of tear gas. This stopped them only temporarily and again they surged forward.

Plea Is Jeered
Brig. Gen. Milton A. Rockefeller, the state Adjutant General, then went outside the armory and made a brief speech asking the crowd to get back. He was greeted with jeers.

Firemen from the nearby station house also joined and sprayed water in the general direction of the crowd.

After more than an hour, with the mob still threatening, the state troopers marched from the armory and entrained on the buses in which they had come.

The prisoners were William H. Thompson, 33, a Princess Anne druggist who had been a member of the Governor's jury conducting an investigation of the lynching.

Irving Adkins 30, of Princess Anne, a special officer on Saturday nights.

William P. Hearn of Shad Point, a trucker.

William C. McQuay, of Procooke City, a chain store operator.

Governor Is Ill
Governor Ritchie was ill in Annapolis but news of the attack of the crowd in Salisbury was taken to him and he announced he would call for additional troops if General Reckord asked for them.

At the same time in Annapolis, where the state legislature is in special session, members of the eastern shore delegation criticized Gov. Ritchie bitterly for sending troops.

Senator Dudley G. Roe a Democrat, called a meeting of eastern shore members for this afternoon.

After the troops left, the crowd continued to make boisterous demonstrations. Two automobiles were overturned, one of them catching fire. Part of the men gathered outside and could be heard making threats against reporters.

The reporters were taken out by a side entrance. The automobile which was damaged by fire was said to belong to a Washington newspaperman.

Touhy Gang Not Guilty Says Jury

St. Paul Nov. 28—(AP)—A Federal Court jury today acquitted Roger Touhy and three other Chicagoans on charges growing out of the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., millionaire St. Paul brewer.

E. J. STEVENS IS SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Appeal Taken From Sentence of 1 to 10 Years In Prison

Chicago, Nov. 28—(AP)—Ernest J. Stevens, former official of the defunct Illinois Life Insurance Co., continued at liberty on bond today after being sentenced to serve from one to 10 years in the state penitentiary on a charge of embezzling $1,600,000 of the concern's funds.

Sentence was passed yesterday by Criminal Court Judge Michael J. Feinberg and Stevens' attorney was permitted 60 days to prepare an appeal. Asked by the court if he cared to comment Stevens said: "I feel that it has been assumed from the start that I was guilty and that I had to prove my innocence. I feel that a terrible injustice has been done to me. I did not commit the crime of embezzlement."

Father's Case Dropped

At the same time a conspiracy charge against the defendants father, James W. Stevens, indicted with Ernest and another son, Raymond W. who has since committed suicide was stricken by Assistant State Attorney John O'Hara with leave to reinstate. The elder Stevens has been ill since suffering a paralytic stroke last spring.

During the trial of Ernest J. Stevens the state contended that funds from the insurance company, founded and operated by the Stevens family, were transferred to the Stevens Hotel of which Ernest was president and manager.

John Jacob Astor Widow Takes Third Husband, A Boxer

New York, Nov. 28—(AP)—Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, widow of John Jacob Astor and former wife of William K. Dick, has taken a third husband, Enzo Piermonte, Italian boxer.

The ceremony was performed by a city official yesterday afternoon in Doctors' hospital where Mrs. Dick is recuperating from a broken arm received in a fall in Bermuda.

Piermonte formerly was companion and boxing tutor to Mrs. Dick's two youngest sons, and recently obtained a Nevada divorce from his wife, who lives in Rome and who had contested his suit in Italy. Mrs. Dick obtained a divorce from her second husband in Reno last July. At that time rumors were current that she and Piermonte would be married, but were denied by both parties.

The wedding was witnessed by the bride's three sons, John Jacob Astor, Jr., William K. Dick, Jr. and John Henry Dick, her mother, Mrs. William K. Dick, and a dozen other friends of the couple.

The bride, whose maiden name was Madeline Talmage Force, was married to the late John Jacob Astor in 1911. The following year Astor drowned in the Titanic disaster. His wife was saved. She was married to Dick in 1916.

These reports drew no official recognition. District Attorney Fred L. Thomas expressed regret at the lynchings but said: "I don't see what we can do about it."

Father Regrets Violence

Alex J. Hart, merchant and father of the 22-year-old kidnap victim, whose body was placed in the family vault yesterday, was among those regretting the mob action.

"I am so overcome with my own grief," he said, "that I am unable to think of that other terrible thing. My sympathy goes out to the families of those two men."

Gov. Ralph Maintains Stand

Governor Ralph reaffirmed his approval of the action Sunday night "by the aroused people" of San Jose, in a statement in San Francisco last night and then went to Sacramento where, for the second time, he cancelled a proposed trip to Boise, Idaho.

The Governor said in a telegram to Governor Ross of Idaho, announcing his change of plans, that "conditions" in California are very unsettled because of the lynchings and that he deemed it advisable not to make the trip.

Regarding the many messages of condemnation and praise for his attitude, the Governor said that criticism was to be expected.

"Those criticizing me," he added, "do not realize what would have happened had the national guard moved in and had moved down innocent citizens."

The Governor admitted that his threat to turn over all kidnapers in San Quentin and Folsom prisons to the people of San Jose for punishment was not to be taken literally. He praised Sheriff William J. Ennis and other officers for their efforts to save Thurmond and Holmes.

"They did their duty as far as it was possible," he said, "but the night of the people was determined to serve notice to the world that kidnaping and murder will not be tolerated in California."

latory liquor ordinance before next week Tuesday."

City Attorney Martin Gannon added his opinion, he stating that cities have the right not only to regulate the sale of liquor but on the other hand to prohibit its sale. He suggested a draft of the old city liquor ordinance in the event that the old-time saloon is to reappear, and if not, the drafting of an entirely new measure.

At the mayor's suggestion, the council recessed until next Friday evening at 8 o'clock when it is expected that an outline of an ordinance will be ready for discussion and consideration.

Junk Yards Forget

A petition bearing the signatures of a large group of property owners residing in the vicinity of Third street and Highland avenue was presented to the council, complaining of the junk yard which the firm of Sinow & Weinman are alleged to have established in that neighborhood. With the reading of the objection petition, Commissioner Cal G. Tyler of the department of public health and safety addressed the council.

He stated that he had conducted a personal inspection of the property complained of in the petition and had found that a junk and storage yard was being conducted by the firm of Sinow & Weinman on Highland avenue between Third and Fourth streets, without a city license. Reciting conditions as he had found them to exist, the commissioner stated that piles of inflammable paper were stored in the yards, thus creating a fire hazard, that rats were propagating rapidly, according to complaints, odors were highly offensive, that the written consent of adjoining property owners, which is required, had not been secured, and that conditions generally were offensive and objectionable, besides being hazardous.

"It is time that some action be taken by the city council for the protection of those property owners residing in that immediate neighborhood."

With this statement of conditions, Commissioner Tyler requested that the city attorney be instructed to institute immediate injunction proceedings against the offending firm and require that all junk now stored in the Highland avenue yards, be immediately removed. The council voted in favor of the action.

Improve Cemetery

Commissioner A. C. Moeller reported to the council that 12 men employed under the civil works administration program in Oakwood cemetery, last week made available by grading and filling, a section valued at about $2,500 in saleable lots from ground which had been practically worthless for cemetery purposes.

Commissioner John H. Loftus told the council that three projects were now being carried on in his department, the removal of the street car tracks, repaving paving in down town alleys and the cleaning of the drainage ditches, which made a very creditable showing. Under the program, the commissioner stated, the men were giving full days work and appeared to be glad that they were able to labor on these projects.

Mayor Dixon declared that the city was powerless to place men at work under the civil works administration plan but that all men were supplied from the welfare relief headquarters, the city acting only in a supervisory capacity. He also informed the council that within a short time it was expected that the section of land abutting Rock river on the north side and west of the Illinois Central bridge, would soon be deeded to the city by the Borden company. He stated that he had gained this information from correspondence with Walter

FAITH OF OUR MOTHERS

(Tune: St. Catherine)
AITH of our mothers, hold it true
As morning star in heaven's blue
As peerless pearl from the ocean's bed,
As guiding light, seen far ahead.

faith of our mothers, blessed faith,
shall be ours to hold till death.
faith of our mothers, hold in trust that which is true and pure and just,
for those held dear who leave her care.

faith of our mothers, blessed faith

Mrs. Harold McCleary Hostess to H. B. Unit

The South Dixon Unit of the Home Bureau met Nov. 20th at the home of Mrs. Harold McCleary, with a good attendance of members and two visitors.

After the usual business session, at which time the chairman gave some very fine reports on county meetings attended, Mrs. Syverud, the advisor, gave the lesson on preparing the clothing of the family or winter.

At the close of the lesson an exhibit of inexpensive Christmas gifts was appreciated by all.

The meeting was then adjourned to meet with Mrs. William Frits, Dec. 12th. This will be an all day meeting with a picnic dinner at noon.

Twenty-fourth Anniversary Celebrated

Relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kregger of Eldena on November 24 to assist them in celebrating their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary. The party was a complete surprise to the Kregger family.

The evening passed all too soon with the playing of cards, and dancing to the good music of the Dixon Harmony Boys.

Tempering refreshments were served at a late hour after which all departed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Kregger many happy returns of the day and hoping their enjoyment of the evening.

Tested RECIPES

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
RECIPES FOR THANKSGIVING

(Serving Eight)
Chestnut Stuffing
(For 10-pound fowl)
1 lb chestnuts, peeled
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1-2 cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onions
Cook chestnuts until soft. Mash or cut into 1-4 inch dice. Add to rest of ingredients and mix lightly. Stuff fowl.

Cranberry Juice Cocktail
(For Fish)
4 cups berries
4 cups water
2-3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1-8 teaspoon salt
Mix the berries and water. Simmer in a covered pan until the berries are soft. Press through a sieve and add sugar to the lemon juice and heat for one minute, stirring constantly. Add the lemon juice and salt and cool and chill.

Cocktail Sauce
(For Cooked Green Vegetables)
1-3 cup butter
3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1-3 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
2-3 cup boiling water
Cream butter and egg yolks in upper part of double boiler, slowly add lemon juice and seasonings. Beat one minute, add boiling water and place boiler in lower part which has been placed over hot water. Heat slowly and stir constantly until sauce thickens a little. Be careful not to overcook this sauce, serve as soon as made.

The sauce can be poured on the vegetable when it is served or passed in small dish. The latter is the preferred way.

League Women Voters Concerned With Consumers' Problems

The Illinois League of Women Voters is as ever, concerned with the problems today facing the great body of consumers. Mrs. Maurice A. Pollak, of Highland Park, who is chairman of the League's Living Costs Committee, has been studying the consumer's problems as affected by recent governmental action. She says that "we consumers are especially interested in the Consumers Advisory Board of which the personnel is excellently qualified for their job."

In explaining how this board functions, Mrs. Pollak adds: "Each industry under its code is to follow a uniform system of cost-accounting and is to submit periodic statistics of its operations. This will be the material with which the Board will work. It will also be aided by government experts already functioning in the Federal Trade Commission, the Bureau of Home Economics, the Bureau of Standards, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics."

It is a fact, says Mrs. Pollak, that the Consumers Council under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Since much of our income is spent on food we as consumers are particularly interested in the food costs and in the cost of food. As we watch the increase which is bound to come and wonder whether or not it is fair, we must try to understand some of the factors which are behind a valid rise, such as increased wages and processing taxes. The Consumers' council of the AAA is putting out a bi-weekly bulletin called the "Consumers' Guide," just for that purpose. It gives average costs of food commodities for fifty cities in the U. S. or each two weeks, reasons why the prices are what they are and a resume of the farm program up to date. Any one may be put on the mailing list to receive this guide by writing to Dr. Fredrick C. Howe, Consumers Council, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Pollak quotes Dr. Howe as saying: "The second issue of the guide."

Your government in Washington is doing everything it can to protect you against unreasonable price advance. You can protect yourselves by watching your local prices and checking them against the average prices reported every two weeks in this bulletin." Dr. Howe also urged the organization of community Consumers' Councils "to represent the consumers' view point on questions of fair prices and fair trade practices."

South Dixon Community Club Met

On Wednesday November 22 the South Dixon Community Club held a most enjoyable all-day meeting at the home of the President, Mrs. Walter Ortigiesen.

A roast goose and chicken dinner was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Frank Stefkun and Mrs. Arnold Götzel.

After songs and roll call Mrs. Stefkun had charge of a most interesting afternoon program.

Mrs. Roy Fisher, Mrs. David Moore and Mrs. Noah Beard were awarded pretty prizes in different contests.

Plans were made to hold a social event of some kind in the near future, which will be announced at a later date.

Nearly 100 per cent membership and several visitors were present and all enjoyed the day with Mrs. Ortigiesen.

The next meeting will be on December 6, with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Götzel, at their home north of Eldena, to which the husbands of members are cordially invited.

Dress Child Warmly; But Not Too Warmly

At this time of year mothers begin to wonder about dressing the children for winter.

Can Billy—five years old—continue to wear his wash suits? What will the baby need? How about underwear for all the children? What about socks?

In the old days before general heating systems were in vogue the answers were simple. Houses were drafty, unheated and frequently cold. The problem was solved by wool. Woolen underwear long woolen petticoats for the girls, and iron-clad stockings for every one.

Now things are changed and rightly, to conform to new heating that keeps houses and schools at summer temperature. It would be impossible to swathe the children as before in layers of heavy wool and expect them to be well and comfortable. Even babies' clothes are short and simple.

Sweaters Indispensable
The secret of dressing children now lies in the "supplementary" articles of clothing that make adjustable dressing easy. Aside from better heating winter does not mean four months of bitter days for all of us. As we know, temperature can rise or drop 50 degrees overnight.

Sweaters for all children are almost indispensable. This makes the wash-dress or wash-suit for little people possible throughout the year. If the furnace isn't going so well, on goes the sweater. Of course, if you are living in a very bitter climate, the wash-suit is out.

Children may wear socks, too, in the house, the same as in summer. But do keep stockings on hand for the days when the house thermometer simply won't stay up to 68 or 70.

There is such a variety of underwear today that all a mother has to do is to make up her mind

Moyers Grateful For Kind Wishes

Postmaster and Mrs. John E. Moyer desire through the medium of the "Telegraph" to express their most sincere appreciation for the many tokens of friendship showered on them on their "Golden Wedding Day" and they say regardless of what one may possess of this world's goods, those who have friends are by far the richest.

Many of our older residents will remember Hiram Raymond, father of Bert Raymond of Dixon, and I. D. Appleford and Will Appleford his son, now living in Los Angeles, Calif. Both Mr. Hiram Raymond and Mr. I. D. Appleford have long since departed this life, but during their life time were very fond of spearing fish, and both Bert and Will as well as John E. Moyer used to join in the sport with them. This is all brought back to mind when the following poetry was received from Will Appleford by John E. Moyer together with his congratulations, and is passed on to readers of the "Telegraph."

That Old Flat Bottomed Boat
A youngsters mighty lucky who's got a fishin' dad—
The fun I used to have with mine is the best I've ever had.
When the setting sun did call the music from the lutey bull-frog's throat,
And we went trollin' pickerin' in an old flat-bottomed boat.

We used to use a hand line with a whirling silver spoon,
An' we took turns a rowin' 'd all the shimmering summer moon
It's warning of the night fall with it's silver pickin' wrote
An' we quit trollin' pickerin' in an old flat-bottomed boat.

In the dusk of early evenin' fish'll strike at shinin' bait
A droppin' softly down slow waters we'd lure 'em to their fate.
A pilin' up a breakfast worth a twenty dollar note
By just a trollin' pickerin' in an old flat-bottomed boat.

An' I'm goin' back next summer to the fun I can't forget
An' when the evenin's shadows lengthen over the old mill pond,
We'll be droppin' down the river, past the lily fronds we'll float
Dad 'an me a trollin' pickerin' in an old flat-bottomed boat.

Over Hundred Ladies at Delightful Meeting M.E. Church

On Friday afternoon at the M. E. church, over one hundred ladies of the Aid Society enjoyed the delightful program which had been planned by their social chairman, Mrs. Will Hintz. At 2 o'clock, Mrs. A. N. Richardson, the president conducted the regular monthly business session after which the following program was given.

The first number was the "Hat Song" in which hats of other days were described as well as worn by the following seven ladies: Mrs. Veral Carpenter, Miss Naomi Woll, Mrs. George McGraham, Mrs. Orville Smith, Mrs. William Lang, Mrs. Paul Johnson and Mrs. Lex Hartzell. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George Mathias.

All types of headgear were in evidence from the "Merry Widow" to a poke bonnet over eighty years old.

The next number was an original poem, composed and read by Mrs. Gilbert Stansell in which she depicted a grandmother dreaming by the fireside. As each memory picture passed thro' her mind, a curtain was drawn aside and a spot light turned on the various characters included in her dream.

Mrs. L. G. Meppen was the mother of a generation ago with her long-skirted infant; Mrs. L. N. Deutsch, the proverbial "Bad Boy" complete even to the freckles and missing front tooth.

Mrs. R. D. Matthews was the old fashioned bride, very winsome in a gown of crisp black taffeta. Later, she was a very modern daughter in a bright red gown. Mrs. E. J. Brown and Mrs. Ellen Peterson made an ideal wedded couple of the "long ago" even to the shoulder cape and gray goatee.

Mrs. A. E. Sheffield took the part

Ready to Mail Christmas Seals

With 750,000 tuberculosis Christmas seals ready for mailing to 5-175 families throughout the county, the Lee County Christmas Seal committee has completed plans and is ready for the official opening of the 27th annual seal campaign tomorrow, according to Edward A. Jones, Chairman.

Proceeds from the sale will finance the 1934 program of tuberculosis prevention adopted recently by the committee. The program includes a county-wide campaign of five main units.

"In these times of economic stress a job of preventing tuberculosis is of more importance than ever before. With funds raised by the sale of seal the committee hopes to conduct during the coming year one of the most intensive campaigns against this disease ever carried on in this community," Mr. Jones said.

The tuberculosis death rate in Lee county is higher than that of the state or nation he said. Although considerable progress has been made in reducing deaths from this disease, it is still the major cause of death in the age group 15 to 45.

"Everyone uses some sort of stickers on Christmas mail and packages," he continued, "By using tuberculosis Christmas seals, we not only convey Christmas greetings to our friends but aid in a great life-saving campaign."

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt, endorsing the annual sale of Christmas seals to aid in the fight against tuberculosis, today declared public health work a part of the national recovery program.

The statement, made public at the White House, follows: "Protection of public health has been one of the fundamental responsibilities of the government and in the period of adjustment through which we are now passing that responsibility has increased. In the scheme of recovery, organizations which devote themselves to public health work are serving the government by supplementing the activities of its established health departments."

"The sale of Christmas seals will open on Thanksgiving Day. They will be sold by 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country. With the proceeds derived from this sale, these associations finance their programs of clinics, nursing, education, rehabilitation and research."

"I heartily recommend that we continue our support of these activities through the purchase of Christmas seals."

Ortt Auxiliary Met Friday Eve

The Horace F. Ortt Auxiliary, No. 340, held a meeting in the G. A. R. hall Friday evening. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Flave Plock, and the minutes were read and business was then transacted. A report was given on the carnival and dance given Wednesday evening at Woodman hall.

A neat sum was realized for the Auxiliary treasury. A report was then made of the sick, Mrs. Lee Eastman and Arthur Handell and it is stated they are getting along nicely.

It was decided to have a penny picnic supper at the next meeting, Dec. 8th. Each member of the Auxiliary can invite a friend to the supper. Those on the committee are Florence Ensmole, Dorothy Godt, and Rose Nafziger. For any information call W1194. The meeting closed to open again Dec. 8th to which all members are urged to attend.

MINDS CHANGE FAST.

One of the oddest things about American life is the way in which direct reversals in public feeling can take place in a relatively short time.

Consider, for instance, two of this year's developments—prohibition repeal and Russian recognition.

Since the fall of Kerensky, America has not recognized the Russian government; and there is very little question that that policy was a popular one with the rank and file of American citizens.

Any suggestion that Washington was preparing to resume relations with Russia would, until comparatively recently, have brought forth a storm of protest.

It is the same with prohibition. The law came in for a good bit of criticism, to be sure; yet as recently as 1928 a presidential candidate who ran on a wet platform was snowed under overwhelmingly.

And now—prohibition gets repealed in jig time by a huge vote, and Washington recognizes Moscow without creating a ripple.

The American public can change its mind fast, when it wants to.

EVEN A HITLER MUST BOW TO DEMOCRACY.

Sole significance of the farcical election by which Chancellor Hitler gained an expression of his nation's approval for the things he has done is that it proves that even a dictator must step out now and then and make a bow in the direction of democracy.

An election in which only one side is permitted to do any campaigning or put up any candidates really can't mean very much. But the mere fact that this election was held at all indicates that not even Hitler cares to proceed without at least going through the form of finding out how his people feel about things.

Nobody needs to be told that democracy has hit some pretty big bumps since the war. In one country after another—in Russia, in Italy, in Germany, and elsewhere—dictatorship has come into style.

Both the ultra-radical and the ultra-conservative have grown distrustful of democracy. It has become fashionable to say that popular government is an out-of-date idea.

And in all this we in America have a peculiar interest. Not only do we ourselves live in one of the surviving democracies; democracy itself is, to all intents and purposes, our invention. We set up the first great democracy; we forced the world to examine the idea; we were at the bottom of the whole movement toward equalitarianism and political liberty.

So today we cannot be indifferent to the steady trend away from democracy which the world is exhibiting; nor can we fail to find something extremely interesting in these ridiculous referenda which dictators like Hitler feel it necessary to hold every so often.

For such votes, absurd as they may be, nevertheless point to the solidity of democracy's basic idea—that there can be no secure government which does not operate with the consent of those it governs.

There can be no unalloyed autocracy any more. Even a Hitler must go through the motions of seeing what is on the voters' minds.

And that, dark as democracy's prospects may seem, is highly important. The idea which is democracy's foundation stone has been accepted even by the enemies of democracy.

If we in America continue to keep the light of political liberty burning clearly, democracy yet will regain the ground it has lost.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS.

One of the jobs which the government profitably might consider in connection with its big public works program is elimination of railroad grade crossings.

Most grade crossing accidents are the fault of the motorists, to be sure. And it cannot be denied that in the dreadful list of traffic accidents the grade crossing occupies, relatively, a minor place. Nevertheless, the unprotected crossing is a danger, and it is one altogether too common in America.

Furthermore, railroads all over the country are experimenting with new high-speed trains. Speeds of 90 and 100 miles an hour will, apparently, be fairly common on American railroads in the not-distant future.

With such speeds, the grade crossing will be far more dangerous than it is now. It would not be a bad idea to spend a good sum of money on the job of eliminating it.

Only foolish men still demand good-looking secretaries in preference to those with brains.—Mrs. Marion Pedraza, Philadelphia, federal-state employment head.

If I were to marry, I would have to spend the rest of my life being what my wife would want me to be.—Prince of Wales.

Near Collapse On Entering Jail

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop forced to stop for a moment, nearly fainting, at the entrance to the county jail in Chicago as she was placed behind bars charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, whom she confessed chloroforming and shooting. Everyday Religion

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

"Quarreled with Henry." These words occur again and again in a shabby old account book kept by Ellen Terry. It is a diary marked, "About H. I." meaning, of course, her friend and partner, Sir Henry Irving with whom she won fame on the stage.

"I felt a good many feelings," she says after one of their most bitter quarrels. "At top of all came amusement to save the situation," she adds. If only they could have seen how ridiculous it was from the first. But the quarrels went on until at last the rift in the lute silenced the music of their friendship in "a dirty kick-out" as she calls it.

How strange! They were two of the most gifted people of their generation, dear friends, if not lovers, and each needed the other. Yet they quarreled all the time. She writes about Irving plainly, in words of mingled admiration, affection and contempt. One wonders what he would have written about Ellen Terry if he had kept such a diary. No doubt he said what was in his mind, but did not set it down in a book. Alas, how much time and energy people spend in quarrels about every sort of thing. About the writing of a letter, the decoration of a room, or the spending of money for this or that. About the meaning of what has been said or left unsaid, about acts which were unoffending and silences which meant nothing at all. Aye, and quarrels such as no mortal can number about the driving of an automobile.

Even lovers quarrel, if only for the fun of making up. One hardly dares to speak of the savage quarrels about religion, in which good men use hot and horrible words. In angry, irritation, or impatience we belog our minds, making mountains out of molehills, and use words which later we would give much to recall and unsay.

What is the sense of it? Why waste time wounding each other with cutting words? A sense of humor if we have no other sort of sense, ought to protect us from such folly. It takes two to make a quarrel, and if we refuse to be one of them—that will settle it!

The Tynymites just stared awhile and then wee Dotty with a smile, said, "Gee, I'll bet the Northern Lights are pretty, down on earth." "I wish the little tots could hear how they were fixed up way up here. I'll bet they'd never guess that we have worked for all we're worth."

And then the bunch heard Duncy say, "Just how does Dotty get that way? Why, she was looking on while we were dipping all those lights."

"I dipped more candles than the rest. I'll bet that mine are burning best. The ones who do the least, I'm thinking, most enjoy the sights."

"Aren't you ashamed?" snapped Scouty. "You should never brag about what you do. I do not think the girls should always have to lend a hand."

"But, let's not argue. It's all done and everybody's having fun. At least, you will admit that all the Northern Lights look grand."

The Star Man then said, "There's a sight that you will all enjoy to-night. We'll have to hurry, though, before the Moon Man disappears. 'I have a dandy telescope that you can all see through. I hope, you see, the Moon Man leaves each night when break of morning nears.'"

Then to the telescope they ran. "Gaze through it," said the old Star Man. As Goldy did, she shouted, "I can see the Moon Man. Gee! 'I guess he is a sleepy head. He's just about to go to bed. At any rate he's stretching, and looks tired as tired can be.'"

The other Tines took their turn. The Star Man said, "Each day you learn something that's new and interesting, as you have tonight."

"You see, the sun soon will be out. That scares the old Moon Man, no doubt. He's crawling into bed, lads, so that he'll be out of sight."

(The Tines watch ol' Sol get polished in the next story.)

VOCATIONAL AG. FAIR HERE LAST OF CURRENT WEEK

Nineteen High Schools Of District Eligible To Exhibit

The Vocational Agriculture departments of nineteen high schools in Section One will be eligible to enter exhibits of grain and poultry in the Vocational Fair here December 1st and 2nd. These high schools are as follows: Amboy, Ashton, Dakota, Dixon, Durand, Elizabeth, Franklin, Grove, Larnark, Leaf River, Milledgeville, Mt. Carroll, Orangeville, Pearl City, Polo, Prophetstown, Rochelle, Rock Falls, Stockton and Tampico. Boys in these high schools who carried on projects in connection with their study of Vocational Agriculture last year will be eligible to enter exhibits which were a part of these projects. All exhibitors are limited to one entry in any one class but many enter more than one class provided the other requirements are met. An entry fee of 25 cents is required from every boy and this entitles him to exhibit in as many classes as he can qualify for. This entry fee is charged for the purpose of paying the expenses of the Fair. No amount of the prize money can be used for this purpose because it is all used to pay the awards. The expenses involved are advertising and publicity, mailing judges, rental, and other miscellaneous items.

Entries are being made in corn, oats, wheat, early and late potatoes, four or more breeds of poultry, and eggs. Classes of corn consist of 10 ear samples, 25 ear samples, and one peck of shelled corn for both yellow and white corn. Classes of oats consist of one peck, classes of wheat one peck; and potatoes one peck. Eggs may be either brown or white, with 15 eggs making up each sample. In the breeds of poultry there are three lots for each breed; the first is a pen consisting of one male and three females; the second a pullet, and the third a cockerel. In this way the boy who exhibits poultry can show as many as six birds of one breed. Some boys will have entries for more than one breed of poultry. In this manner the size of the fair will be greatly increased.

Daily Health Talk

FOOD AND GOITER

The thyroid gland is an organ whose size changes from time to time. It is subject to a variety of influences, responding under different circumstances to varying demands made upon it by the body's functions.

The size of the thyroid gland is influenced by heredity, by individual peculiarities, and by such factors as age, sex, sexual activity, emotional conditions, season, locality, altitude, distance from the sea, sanitary conditions and diet. Of these diet is the most important.

It is well known that the thyroid has a profound influence upon the functions of the body particularly with relation to the utilization of the food eaten. The thyroid, as it is popularly stated, controls the fire of the human body.

The thyroid, however, is influenced by diet, and it may be said, in fact that no organ is more sensitive to food conditions.

Dietary excesses favor the production of goiter, as also does deficiency in the diet of vitamins A and C.

On the other hand, foodstuffs such as milk, oatmeal, green vegetables and carrots appear to protect the individual against the development of goiter.

The thyroid responds both functionally and structurally to the repeated stimulation of excitement, anger, aggravations and worry, and it is believed that originally was a functional response to an emotional stimulus, may in time and with repetition effect a permanent change in both the structure and function of the gland.

On the other hand, environmental factors which do not produce undesirable emotional states do not appear to produce goiter. At least, such is the evidence from experiments conducted on animals.

Rats fed on a perfectly good diet do not develop goiter, even though living under conditions of gross in-purcentage of a similar batch of rats fed on a poor diet became goitrous.

Countess Given Prison Sentence

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Countess Grace de Benque Monday was sentenced to from two to four years in prison after being convicted with George A. Gormley of stealing $5,000 from Miss Louise Maret, proprietor of a fashionable girls' school here.

Justice Joseph W. Cox in the District of Columbia Supreme Court sentenced Gormley to from four to eight years, and overruled his motion for a new trial.

They were charged with having Miss Maret "arrested" on a little frequent Maryland road by a man paid $250 to act as a "policeman." Miss Maret was told the matter could be kept quiet for $15,000. She told the court she had advanced $5,000, but later decided to prosecute.

Bullitt To Leave For Russia Soon

Washington, Nov. 27.—(AP)—William C. Bullitt, newly appointed Ambassador to Soviet Russia, resumed his work at the State Department today after a final talk with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Georgia.

He leaves Washington for New York tomorrow and expects to sail Wednesday for Europe.

Acting Secretary William Phillips said today the State Department is considering appointments for the staff of the Moscow embassy and of consulates in Soviet Russia, but will not announce the personnel for some time.

Surprise Party For Earl James

A large company of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Earl James assembled at their home Sunday evening, arriving entirely unexpected, for the purpose of assisting in the celebration of Mr. James birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in a social way, several old time games being played in which the time honored apple-bobbing contest proved an entertaining feature. A dinner was served at a late hour and the host was the recipient of many useful and beautiful remembrances.

Recipe for Delicious Mince Meat

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Staff Writer

The modern mince meat is quite different from the concoctions of our grandmothers. Fifty years ago mince meat lived up to its name and actually was thick with meat. The old recipes or "receipts" call for a few raisins and spices to give flavor but the main ingredients were meat, suet, apples and boiled cider. Today some cooks make mince meat without meat, using nuts, candied fruits, currants, raisins, preserves and fruit juices carefully seasoned with sugar and spices.

Although there are many kinds of excellent mince meats on the market, many housewives like to make their own. No holiday menu is complete without at least a narrow wedge of mince pie. And for meals during the entire holiday season mince pie makes an acceptable dessert. Delicious puddings and cakes are made with mince meat, too.

Some of the old receipts use "spirits" very liberally. Boiled cider was considered essential, and of course suet, lean beef, raisins, currant, citron, apples and spices were used in varying proportions. The following rule is a combination of the modern and old-fashioned mixture.

Mince Meat

Two pounds of lean beef, 3-4 pound beef suet, 4 pounds apples, 2 pounds seeded raisins, 1 pound cleaned currants, 1 pound shredded citron, 1-4 pound candied orange peel, 1-4 pound candied lemon peel, 2 pounds light brown sugar, 1 quart sweet cider or the equivalent in fruit juices, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup meat stock, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 nutmeg (grated), 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 2 teaspoons ground allspice, 1 cup preserved cherries or strawberries.

Any part of the beef can be used that is lean. Some people prefer the tongue to any other part although the neck and other cheap cuts can be used. Boil meat until tender, adding 1-2 teaspoons salt when half done. When meat is tender boil rapidly to reduce the stock to one cup. Let cool in stock. When cool remove from stock and carefully trim away any bits of fat, bone or gristle. Put meat through food chopper and strain stock. Chop suet. Pare, core and chop apples and chop raisins. Put all ingredients except preserves into preserving kettle. Bring to the boiling point and cook over a low fire for about two hours, stirring to prevent sticking. Add preserves and bring again to the boiling point. Pour into sterilized jars and seal. If brandy or sherry is used add it the last thing before sealing. One pint will be sufficient for this amount of mince meat.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

FRUIT CAKE? MAKE IT NOW. IT'LL IMPROVE WITH AGE

If you're thinking of fruit cake, remember that it will improve in flavor if allowed to stand a little while before it is used. Select a heavy pan for baking the fruit cake and line it with two thicknesses of heavy waxed paper. As soon as the cake is done, remove it to a wire rack to cool but do not tear off the waxed paper. When the cake is cool wrap it in several layers of waxed paper and tie with white cord. Store in an air-tight box or stone jar to "ripen."

CHINA SAVING HINT

If you are fearful lest your guests break your delicate but rather slippery cups and saucers at the tea party, pour a drop or so of hot water into the saucers and then the cup will tend to cling to its saucer and not slide when being passed around.

SAVE COLD CREAM JARS FOR MARRIAGE GIFTS

Don't throw away your old cold cream jars and other similar containers. Save them to hold your gifts of jams and marmalades. Orange, grapefruit and dried fruits can be made into preserves and marmalades and poured into the jars. Several jars of these sweets tied in Christmas wrapping make not acceptable holiday gifts.

PROGRESSIVE PARTIES

Why not reproduce the fad of the progressive party, to eliminate excessive cost to any one family for entertainment everybody desires? This can be done comfortably if all your friends live nearby. At the first house hors-d'oeuvres may be served, at the next soup, at the third the main course, at the fourth dessert and coffee, and at the fifth bridge may be played with light refreshments afterward.

In this way all have done their part and all have had a party.

Using Up Old Collars

A thrifty housewife boasts that she never throws away her husband's stiff collars. She cuts them up for baggie tags, making a hole for the insertion of the cord. Then she writes on them and saves them for the next trip or holiday. They can also be used in smaller size for labeling keys.

Flower-Arrangement Hint

When a flower holder is to fit into a bowl exactly is not available, crushed tissue paper can be substituted. Place the paper in the bottom of the bowl and tie the flowers can then be arranged easily.

Bethel Young People Enjoyed Hard Time Party Friday

The beautiful farm home of Louis Zigler was a bit upset, after about 120 young people of Bethel church had finished having their fun at the hard time party given for them on Friday evening Nov. 24th.

The crowd gathered at the church at 7:00 P. M. and drove about seven miles west of Woosung for the scene of the happy event. Some of the costumes and make-ups coming to many remarks were just "killing." Mrs. F. W. Beckingham and Carl Hess were awarded the prizes for the best, or rather most funnily dressed in the crowd. Due to so many crowded into the house there was not much room for games.

An ear of corn was passed around for each one to inspect and then guess how many kernels of corn it contained. There were 886, Foster Thompson having guessed 896 and was given the prize for guessing nearest. A song of welcome by the men's quartet followed, after which there was a tie-tying contest and another selection by the quartet.

A play "Wanted, A License to Wed" was very well put over. The characters were:

Sergt. Harris Foster Thompson
Bridget Mary Flannigan Lena Beckingham
Patrick Collins Marie Hogard
Everett Donoho
J. O. Murphy sang a pretty number after which the quartet sang again. In preparation for the big event of the evening, the wedding of Rosebud Delicatessen and Archibald Hercules Headlight, Mrs. Alma Foster sang "Just Before The Battle Mother" with several alterations and Mr. Murphy sang a love song followed by Mrs. Jessie Gaul playing the "Prisoner's Song" as the wedding march.

The groom entered the living room on the arm of the pastor and met his intended bride, Rosebud Delicatessen on her father's arm at the foot of the stairway proceeded by the usual flower girl and boy, best man and bridesmaid and followed by the train bearer and ring bearer. The mother and a rejected suitor were seated in the audience. The cast was as follows:

Preacher Wm. Foster
Flower girl Mrs. E. Donoho
Flower boy Mrs. D. Hess
Mr. Delicatessen Carl Hess
Mrs. Delicatessen E. Thompson
Rejected suitor Oscar Cramer
Archibald Headlight C. Hogard
Rosebud Delicatessen G. Nelson
Ring bearer Lena Beckingham
Bridesmaid Mabel LeFevre
Best man Paul Lambert
Train bearer Pearl LeFevre

During the ceremony, when the rejected suitor spoke up, the bride fainted but soon came to again. After the reading of the nuptials the wedding march was played again as the bridal party left the room. The make-ups for the parts were very good especially Rosebud and Archie with their "natural blushes".

Another song by the quartet was the next feature followed by "Bud" Cheney singing, and playing his own accompaniment to the "Diving Cowboy." Then the quartet took charge for the remainder of the time by singing, as most any other entertainment was almost impossible due to the crowded quarters.

Delicious refreshments were served by the refreshment committee of the young ladies class and all departed after having spent another enjoyable evening at Zigler's parting all could hear the quartet singing "Farewell Ladies."

Several Kinds of Canapes Are Noted

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Staff Writer

Canapes are tiny individual appetizers to serve at the beginning of a dinner or informal luncheon. Usually they take the place of a fruit cocktail or soup. Because they can be made several hours before wanted, covered and put in a cool place they are a boon to the hostess who entertains without a maid or who must do her own cooking with help only in serving.

Just before dinner is announced the canapes are placed on the table. Several kinds are served and one of each kind is placed on each guest's plate. A paper doily covers the center of the plate and a sprig of parsley is added for a garnish. This service demands a small fork.

Canapes may be served in the "living room." These are "finger foods" and while they are made of various seasonings and savories they are not arranged for individual service. Each guest helps himself as many times as he wishes.

There are delicious improved "biscuits" or crackers on the market made especially to fill and garnish with highly seasoned appetizers but very thin slices of bread toasted on one side are perfectly correct to use. The bread is always at hand and is prepared for a canape. Either toast it on one side only or saute it in butter in a frying pan until crisp on one side. The untoasted side is spread with butcher and a highly seasoned paste or mixture such as anchovy, sardine paste, caviar, bloater paste, cheese, "deviled" ham or chicken, smoked salmon, minced corned beef, pate de foie gras and so on through the list of savories. Next they are garnished with any number of other colorful tasty things such as capers, chopped truffles, hard cooked egg, olives, chopped green pepper, pimiento, cream cheese and so on.

Anchovy Canapes

Two hard cooked eggs, 8 anchovies, 8 tiny sprigs parsley, 8 rounds graham bread.

Be sure to cook the eggs 30 minutes just below the boiling point. Otherwise the yolk will not be mealy and tender. Toast rounds of bread on one side and spread untoasted side with butter worked to a smooth paste with mayonnaise. Cover with yolk of egg forced through a sieve and season lightly with salt and paprika. Put a curled anchovy in the center of each and stick a tiny sprig of parsley upright in the middle of the anchovy.

Smoked Salmon Canape

Eight diamond shaped pieces of bread, mayonnaise, 2 hard cooked eggs, smoked salmon, pearl onions. The whites of the hard cooked eggs are used for these canapes. Chop whites very fine and mix with mayonnaise to make of the consistency to spread easily. Prepare toast as in preceding recipe, cover with chopped egg whites and dot with flakes of smoked salmon alternating with pearl onions.

For a third canape cut bread in strips 3-4 of an inch wide by three inches long. Toast on one side and spread butter. Cover with a snapp

A Set of Curtain Tie Backs You Can Crochet Easily Makes An Ideal Gift for Christmas

By NEA Service—

One of the very nicest Christmas presents you can give a friend is a set of hand-crocheted tie-backs for window drapes.

They make their appearance this winter as definitely a new note in house decoration. Moreover, this is a winter when hand-made gadgets are far smarter than bought things. These tie-backs are easy to make, go quickly and are a sure-fire Christmas hit.

These are the directions:

stimulated skin will absorb it more quickly.

Remember that lines occur sooner in dry skin. For that reason, give your complexion plenty of nourishment. A thick tissue cream will put oil back into a drying skin. Don't be afraid to leave a little of it on all night.

Don't wrinkle your forehead when you think or read. That gesture often causes permanent lines. And don't pucker your mouth in an unnatural position. Try to look calm and at ease always. It has a soothing effect on people whom you contact and it will help to keep your skin free of wrinkles.

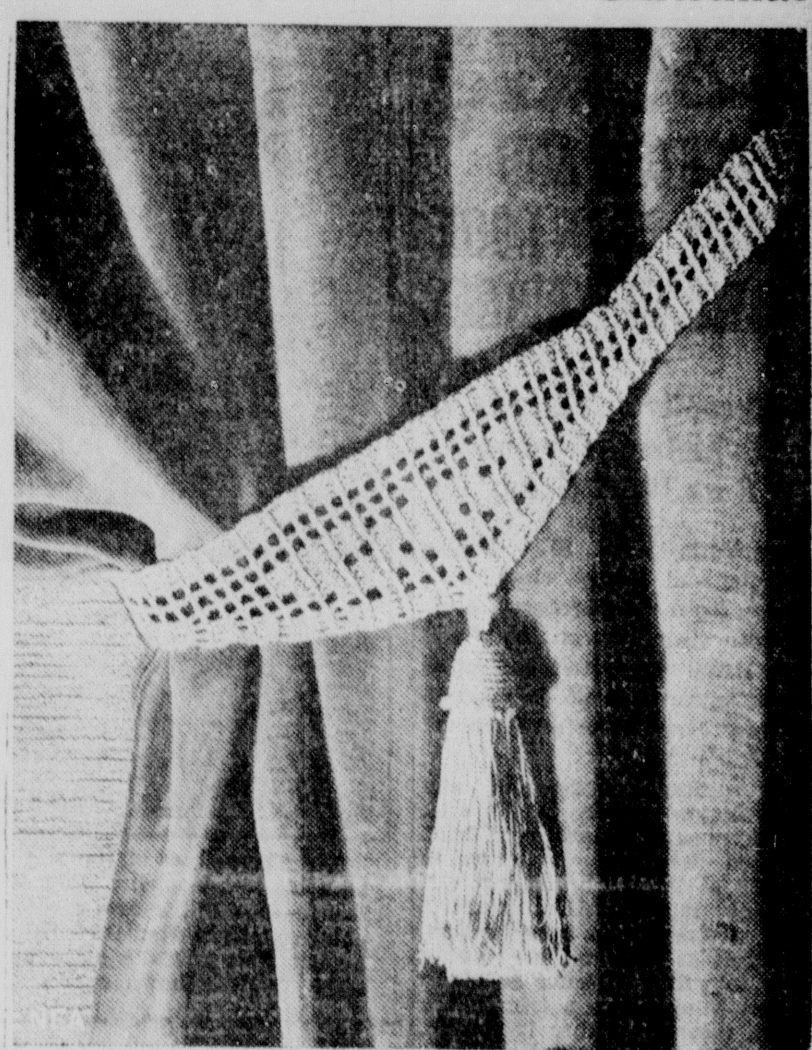

Getting enough sleep is one way to ward off lines. The right diet helps too.

Muscle oil tends to eradicate fine lines around the eyes and mouth. A few drops of it go a long way. Put it on after your face has been cleaned and patted. Warm and

One of the characteristics of the electric utility business is that its product, electric service, cannot be stored.

Whenever you turn on your lights or snap the switch of any of your appliances, that instant the required electricity is produced by huge generators in the power house.

This demands that the generators, transformers, lines—in fact all equipment—be large enough to supply all the electricity required during the "peak load" (which is the time when the most electricity is being used) even though this peak rarely occurs more than one day per year and lasts about 30 minutes. The characteristic also demands reserve equipment as a guard against breakdowns, and makes it necessary to operate the plants continuously.

Slope Shoulder Gives Daytime Suits Chic Slant

Outfits Have Own Fur Jacket or Cape to Make Cheery Winter Ensembles

By JOAN SAVOY

(NEA Service Staff Writer)

It is open season for unusual little daytime costumes. Everybody is hunting for them. The kind to "bag" are those that are different, yet restrained and simple, and have some contrasting material or color to add to their originality.

Sleeves have an interest all their own these days. Gone are the top-heavy puffed uppers. The smartest line you can have right this minute is the one that simulates the drop yoke, giving you sleek, sloping shoulders. This type of sleeve carries on the wide-shoulder tradition without resorting to any exaggeration whatever. It's a lady-line, that drop shoulder.

Necklines still come close up under the chin, but there are fewer or ruffly separate neck-pieces. The suave costume has its very own neck finish. Often it is a part of a vestee effect that fits right into the front of the dress, in contrasting fabrics or color.

The newest unusual little daytime costumes have their own fur jackets or capes to make them ensembles. It may sound extravagant, but you can wear the short jackets or capes with other things. And there's nothing quite so cheery as a comfortable, luxurious short cape or jacket of good fur to slide onto on cold days.

Sleek, new and handsome to gaze upon is a brown suede cloth dress with front, yoke and top sleeves in a heavenly red crushed velvet. The velvet jabot is fastened down by a smart looking silver bar pin. The red of the velvet gives you just the right flush of happiness or health or what-have-you, to your face.

The dress itself will put you at your ease. Going to and fro you slip into the flaring short jacket of beaver, with its trig tailored collar that fastens with an Ascot front. If it is to a party, the theater, a luncheon or 1/2-for-two, this little short wrap will see you through shoulders give way to sleeves that are full and roomy through the elbows and gather in to quite slender cuffs. If you want to be real smart, you can get suede gloves the color of your dress and have their cuffs made of beaver. That's quite a trick this winter for the ultra-ultra.

PRINCETON AND ARMY BOTH LOOK TOWARD TOURNEY

A Receptive Attitude Is Exhibited Toward Rose Bowl Game

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Princeton and Army close their regular football campaigns Saturday with their eyes on Yale and Notre Dame respectively but their ears attentive to a possible bid to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Sole remaining undefeated and untied major eleven in the east, the Tigers and Cadets both have indicated that any invitation to compete at Pasadena against the far west representative, Stanford, would receive serious consideration. Both likewise intimated they would prefer to wait until after Saturday to even think about a trip to the Pacific, assuming either is invited.

"After Notre Dame gets through with us," said Major L. D. Worsham, Graduate Manager of Athletics at West Point, "Stanford

CONFUSION ENDED ON BRAN

New Ruling Corrects All Labels

To protect the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains.

Before this ruling, even part-bran products were sometimes mistakenly referred to as "Bran." It was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN. Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has won millions of friends because it corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes generous "bulk"—needed to promote normal elimination.

However, ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, for the relief of constipation, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Make sure by asking for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It furnishes "bulk" in concentrated form for satisfactory results.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

It's Colonel Terry Now, Suh

may not consider us eligible for an invitation."

Rule Faces Tigers

Asa Buchnell, Princeton's graduate manager, pointed out that even should the Tigers get past Yale to finish with a perfect record for the first time since 1922, there still would remain to be waived an agreement with Yale prohibiting post-season games of any sort. This rule was adopted by the two universities in 1926.

"Release from this clause never has been asked," Hushnell said. "I have no idea what Yale's attitude would be. We have heard nothing from Stanford and could scarcely consider the matter until such an invitation was received."

Stanford players have indicated they would prefer to meet Princeton, Army, Michigan, Duke or the Navy in that order.

On the face of record to date neither Army nor Princeton should have any worries about Saturday's games but the trouble is that the Cadets can no more afford to take anything for granted against Notre Dame than Princeton can against Yale. Both are renewals of traditional rivalries replete with upset after upset.

Despite Yale's rout by Harvard last week Fritz Crisler sent his Princeton squad through their most strenuous Monday drill of the season yesterday. Two varsity players, Chick Kaufman, fleet sophomore halfback, and Johnnie Weller guard, probably will not be able to play against Yale but Crisler has all kinds of material to fill out the vacancies.

The Tigers worked mostly on developing a smoother attack and drilled intensively on forward passing against which Yale's defense was inadequate last week. Gary Levan, Ippy Rulon-Miller, Kats Kadie and Les Kaufman, Chick's brother all were on the throwing end of the passes to other backs that is impossible. Notre Dame is always tough for us and we do not expect anything different this season."

The eleven men who started against Navy and three others who played half the game were excused from work, but the others drilled on offensive and defensive tactics. Long practice sessions today and tomorrow were scheduled before the squad leaves Thursday evening for the Knollwood Country Club, White Plains, where the players will remain until just before game time.

Notre Dame's regulars were given a holiday while Coach Hunk Anderson searched among his reserves for replacements to use against the Cadets.

"Army looks too strong for us," Anderson said, "but we may fool them if we can get our attack working. It is long overdue now."

Fullback Don Elser was definitely declared out of Saturday's game and neither Tom Gorman nor Hugh Devore may be able to play.

BAER WILL PAY GIRL HE FAILED TO MARRY

Breach Of Promise Action to Be Settled Out Of Court

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The probability of a settlement out of court of the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought against Max Baer, handsome heavyweight fighter, by Miss Olive Beck was announced by attorneys here today.

Crozier C. Culp, counsel for the Livermore, Calif., waitress who claims Baer broke his promise to marry her, said terms of a settlement have "practically been reached."

Clifford Russell, acting as legal second for Baer, conferred with Culp last night, and agreed that a compromise appeared to be likely. Neither attorney would state what amount had been proposed but intimated it would be a considerable sum.

Baer was scheduled to appear in Superior Court in Sacramento today in connection with litigation involving himself and his two managers, Ancil Hoffman and J. Hamilton Lorimer.

Coach Bierman to Stay With Gophers

Minneapolis, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Coach Bernie Bierman of the Minnesota football squad said today he'd be with the Gophers again next year and that the season just ended was "satisfactory" and "better than expected."

Reports that Bierman was not satisfied with the salary situation

Teaming Up on the Ducks

at Minnesota have been current since last spring, when with other faculty members he took a decided cut in pay.

The head coach at Minnesota has the rank of professor, with unlimited tenure rather than a contract for a definite term of years. Bierman's salary was reduced from $7,750 annually to approximately $6,500.

Hanley Considers Players To Play In Shriners' Benefit

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern already has started looking for material for the east squad which will meet western all-stars in the annual Shriners' benefit football game for crippled children at San Francisco New Year's Day.

Among the midwestern stars under consideration are Charles Bernard, center, and Herman Everhardus, halfback, Michigan; Joe Laws, Iowa's quarterback; Bill Riley, Northwestern tackle, and Nick Lukats, Notre Dame halfback.

Andy Kerr of Colgate will collaborate with Hanley in naming the eastern squad.

SANTA TO BRING HIS CABIN, RADIO STATION TO CITY

Local Talent Is Invited To Assist In Holiday Broadcasting

The Santa Claus who will visit Dixon Tuesday, December 12, is a modern Santa Claus, radiograms telling of plans for the gigantic, spectacular parade he will stage here, indicate.

Santa is bringing with him his own log cabin home in which he lives at the North Pole, but it is a very modern log cabin. In it is located an up-to-the-minute broadcasting station and Santa will use his radio equipment to broadcast his own program while here.

The feature of Santa's broadcast is his cathedral chimes. Playing Christmas carol music, these chimes will ring out over Santa's own radio broadcasting station so as to be heard throughout the city. The cabin, housing Santa's radio station, will be located in the business district following Santa's parade here, the committee in charge has arranged.

Local Talent Sought

Santa also has sent word that he will be glad to have any local talent for singing or along any other lines of popular entertainment to come to his cabin and take part in his radio broadcast during his visit here.

Mounted on a huge truck, Santa's log cabin with his radio station, will be a part of the gigantic, spectacular parade which Santa will stage when he comes to our city.

As every child knows, Santa slips down the chimney when he makes his regular, mysterious call each Christmas eve. Santa's own log cabin, like everyone else's abode, also has a fine, large chimney big enough for Santa to slip down.

In the parade, Santa will ride poised in the act of starting down the chimney of his own log cabin. This is done to show those who come to see the parade how Santa practices descending chimneys while he is at his North Pole home.

Kentucky Repeal Action Complete

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Kentucky Monday became the 33rd state to formally ratify repeal of the 18th Amendment. Its 19 delegates elected by a state-wide vote over the prohibitionists slate by more than 145,000 majority voted unanimously for repeal.

Governor Ruby Laffoon who opened the convention, said repeal means that "we will handle the liquor question as it should always have been handled," urged that temperance be taught and expressed the hope there would be no return of the open saloon.

RESUME TRIAL OF SCOTTSBORO CASE IN SOUTH

First Of Seven Ac- cused Negroes On Trial Third Time

Detroit, Ala., Nov. 28 —(AP)—Without the military guard in evidence on previous occasions, the Scottsboro case started again Monday when it did almost three years ago with the trial of the first of seven Negro defendants charged with attacking two white women.

Deputies replaced national guardsmen as Heywood Patterson, twice convicted and sentenced to die, faced trial for the third time. The 12 man jury will be selected from a venire of 100 to hear the testimony of more than 70 witnesses.

New State Witness

A new state witness, Orville Gile, is among those subpoenaed to appear today. State attorneys said Gile was aboard the freight and that he would substantiate the story of the attack told by Mrs. Price, Ruby Bates, who appeared at the trial last April to repudiate testimony given in the trial at Scottsboro, is reported in a serious condition following a major operation in New York and is not among the witnesses called to testify in person. She will be interrogated, however, and her deposition sent here.

Stronger Beer Is Coming Soon Say Pittsburgh Brewers

Pittsburgh, Nov. 28 —(AP)—After repeal, three-point-two beer is going to be a couple of points more potent, say the men who brew Pittsburgh's malt beverages.

The post-repeal beers will run from 4½ to 5½ per cent, assert the brewers who incidentally look upon this alcoholic "stepping up" as a sort of trial by content.

They say they don't think the stronger beer will last, pointing out that pre-prohibition brews seldom averaged more than 3.2.

"The Canada beers that have been brought in during the last few years and the home brewers have educated people to stronger beer," asserts John A. Friday of the Independent Brewing Company. "We're really anxious to know what the public prefers. We will make beer of 5 per cent alcoholic content by volume and ale of 7 per cent."

Other brewers report similar plans, with varied notions as to the extent of the "authority" of the three-point-two plus.

Saunders of Chain Store Fame Broke Again He Declares

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 28 —(AP)—Clarence Saunders is broke again but he says he's still not licked.

Twice before he ran a "chain store" into a nation-wide chain of self-service grocery stores, but today his Main Street store here, which little more than a year ago he predicted would make his third fortune, was closed.

He told the public about it in the same personal way he croneled his success and subsequent failure with the "Piggly Wiggly" and "Clarence Saunders, Sole Owner of My Name" chains.

"I subscribed to the NRA program in full faith as instructed by our President," he said in a newspaper advertisement.

"Losses on account of increased wages, plus a lower gross income from sales, so weakened our reserves that it has been a jump from one point of danger to another ever since."

DISTILLING IS AN INTERESTING, EXACTING WORK

Processes Proposed At the Dixon Distillery Are Explained

Many people are interested in the manufacture of whiskey. Available information shows that whiskey was manufactured back in the 10th century, and various methods were used. One method was the use of a copper kettle with a copper tube attached in coil formation. The alcohol vapors arising from the boiling mash passed through these coils which were surrounded by water and condensed the vapor into alcohol. This was then drawn off into bottles or small wooden kegs, and then allowed to age. Various kinds of equipment were used, such as barrels, charred and plain, and even stone jars. In Scotland the manufacturers of Scotch whiskey use only plain oak barrels, whereas in this country most distillers use the oak barrels but they are charred before the whiskey is stored therein. It is the action of the alcohol on the charred oak which draws out the tannin and colors the whiskey. When whiskey is first manufactured it is transparent in color. In Scotland, they use the "peat" found in the "peat bogs", and it gives it the smoke flavor associated with the real "Scotch".

New Method of Aging Various methods are claimed for aging whiskey, some recent ones are that they can age whiskey in 24 hours which will give the taste and appearance of 17-year-old product. Electrolysis has been used, and also what is known as a "hairpin coil". With live steam passing through which in turn heats the liquor causing it to extract the tannin more rapidly and it actually does color the liquor in twenty-four hours. Also in the older distilleries no thought was ever given to the heating of the "rack houses", in other words, the storage rooms for the finished product. Recent surveys have shown that heated warehouses do age the liquor more rapidly.

Raw Materials Used Various grades of whiskeys have been manufactured and the quality of the product depends to a great extent on the percentage of grains used. An average proportion would be as follows: Corn 75 percent; rye 15 percent, and malt (barley) 10 percent. This would produce what is commonly known as "bourbon" whiskey, and this particular type of whiskey is the most popular in the United States. The yields of the above proportioned bushel of grain with competent management should be at least five gallons per bushel, although the government bases tax on a yield ranging from 4.50 to 4.75 gallons per bushel.

There are several methods of manufacture of whiskey, known as "sweet mash," "sour mash" and "rum." The Rock River Distillery, Inc. plans on the manufacture of a "sweet mash" whiskey, and this requires fermentation of 72 hours in the large vats. These vats which will be approximately 14 feet in diameter and 22 feet high, will hold 23,000 gallons of fermentable mash. Three of these vats will be filled daily, and three will be emptied daily.

Steam, Water, Power It is estimated in the local distillery, that the daily maximum requirements of steam, will be 600 horsepower. It will have approximately 200 horsepower of electric power, and will at times use as much as 300 gallons of water per minute. Coal required to generate steam will be approximately twenty-five tons per day. Steam will be used to cook the mixture of ground grain and water, commonly known as "mash," for approximately one hour. It is then pumped to a vat which is known as a "beer vat" and it will require six different cookings before the three large vats have been filled. After the "cooked mash," which is now called "beer," comes from the "beer vat," it is pumped through coolers, and then pumped to the fermenting vats, where it is allowed to ferment for 72 hours. It is then pumped to the stills, and the alcohol evaporated off and the balance of the beer, which is then known as "slop" is pumped to the dryers. This slop is passed over screens which remove most of the water, and the rest is run through presses, and more water removed. The final operation sends the pressed material into the steam heated rotary dryers and these remove the balance of the water and it comes out of the dryers with only 6 to 10 per cent moisture content.

This material is then known as "distillers' dried grains," and commands a very good market price. At the present time the market price ranges from $20 to $25 per ton. This material is fed to cattle and is considered excellent feed, due to the fact of its high protein content (35 percent fat, 14 percent) and carbohydrates. The starch has been removed, being converted into alcohol from a bushel of grain weighing 56 lbs. approximately 40 lbs. of starch will be removed, and the balance of 16 lbs. will go through the stills as slop. Of this amount 5 lbs. will be lost in distillation, and the balance of 11 lbs. will be converted into "distillers' dried grains." From this analysis it is easy to see that practically all of the grain product taken in the distillery, is used for some purpose, as less than 10 percent is lost in the manufacturing process.

CITE FAULTS IN ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY TREATY

Senator Clark Opposes Present Form of Seaway Plan

St. Louis, Nov. 28—(AP)—States of the Mississippi Valley were urged today by Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri to "stand and fight" against ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada.

Speaking before the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association, Senator Clark said ratification of the treaty in its present form would "grant a subsidy running into the hundreds of millions for the relief of the Canadian depression."

"It is my intention when this treaty comes up for consideration in the early part of the next congress, to offer several reservations," he said, "one will be to strike out the limitation on diversion at Chicago and the internationalization of Lake Michigan. Another will be to strike out those portions of the treaty which provide for the construction of works in Canada with American engineers employing Canadian labor, using Canadian materials and American equipment."

"If these reservations fail, I shall vote against the ratification of the treaty, and in common with many other senators who feel as I do, shall use all honorable means to bring about its defeat. And in so doing I shall feel that we are rendering a patriotic service to the whole United States as well as to the particular states and sections we happen to represent."

Illini Will Have Two Captains Next Year: Vote is Tie

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 28—(AP)—When 20 lettermen of the University of Illinois football squad found themselves equally divided on the naming of a captain for the 1934 team it was decided to have two captains, and Jack Beynon of Rockford, and Charles Bennis, of Lincoln were elected.

The election was held last night and Beynon quarterback, and Bennis, a guard, each received 10 votes. Both are juniors. The honor of being the most valuable member of the 1933 team was conferred upon Dave Cook, St. Louis, Mo.

Ross Goes East to Prepare For Fight

Chicago, Nov. 28—(AP)—Earney Ross, lightweight champion of the world, left today for New York where he will meet Billy Petrolle, the Fargo, N. D. veteran, in a ten-round non-title bout December 6.

Ross earned his chance at the lightweight title by outpointing Petrolle in the Chicago Stadium last March. The December 6 bout will be at 142 pounds Petrolle's most effective weight.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment?

DAVID BANNISTER, author, former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out.

"Unknown Blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, but she has disappeared since.

HERMAN SCURLACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He declares his innocence. Bannister works on the case with J. RANDOLPH GAINES, star reporter of the Post. In the star reporter's apartment Bannister dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture which he keeps.

AL DRUGAN, friend of King's, says the orchestra leader had been having trouble with JOE PARROTT, his former vaudeville partner, and accuses Parrott of the murder.

Gaines and Bannister go to see wealthy DENISE LANG, King's old friend, also called. Why are there Denise's father appears and angrily demands that the newspaper men leave.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

CAPTAIN OLIVER MCNEAL brought the front legs of his chair to the floor with a resounding whack. "Well!" he exclaimed. "Will you look who's here—?"

Bannister grinned from the doorway. "Hello, Cap," he said. "Hope you don't mind callers." J. Randolph Gaines, just behind, edged into the room and slumped into the nearest chair.

McNeal was on his feet now. "Davey, my lad!" he said, grasping Bannister's hand. "I thought you were in California! I thought you were away making a big name for yourself. What in blazes do you mean, turning up in my office? Looking fine, you are—"

"And you're looking terrible," Bannister told him, well aware that this was the proper answer. "Understand you've got a little murder case on. Getting a little slow on your feet, aren't you, letting 24 hours go by without bringing in the guilty person?"

"Back on the job?" McNeal eyed him dubiously. "You mean you're working for the Post again?"

"That's it," Bannister told him. "Uhm!" McNeal grunted. "That's different!" He scowled. "Thought we'd got rid of you, once and for all. What'd you want to come back here for?"

"Don't take it too hard," Bannister urged, still grinning. "You see, it isn't permanent. Jim Paxton told me he was short-handed and I agreed to go to work for him for a while. Wanted to see just how slow you and your staff of gum-shoosers will be clearing up this murder—"

McNeal dropped back in his chair. "Just as much lip as ever," he announced, shaking his head. But there was admiration in the blue eyes raised to Bannister's. Admiration and liking. The exchange of mild insults meant merely that Captain McNeal and David Bannister were old friends.

BANNISTER seated himself on the edge of the desk. McNeal, he thought, looked exactly as he had six years before. He wore a felt hat and a blue suit—the same sort of hat and the same sort of suit he had always worn. His hair was no grayer. The gray hair seemed, surprisingly, to accent the youthful alertness of that round and ruddy face. Possibly the captain of detectives was a little heavier than he had been six years before. The military set of his shoulders, though, was as pronounced as ever.

"Well—?" Gaines, across the room, removed his hat and inspected its less than perfect outline. "What's the dope now? Got a confession from Scurlach yet?"

McNeal shook his head. "We're keeping him locked up, just the same."

"Think you'll get one?" Gaines persisted.

"I don't know. We've got a line on another suspect—"

"I know," Gaines said languidly. "You mean Joe Parrott. Do you think you'll find him?"

"Of course we'll find him!" the captain snorted. "I suppose you've been talking to Drugan, have you?" The oaths that followed were not flattering to Mr. Drugan. "I wish he'd learn to keep his mouth shut," McNeal went on. "Going around town doing all this talking! If he keeps on he's going to find himself in trouble!"

Bannister interrupted. "Drugan seems to be pretty sure this fellow Parrott is the one who did the shooting."

McNeal nodded. "We've a surprise or two in store for Mr. Drugan," he said darkly.

"What do you mean?"

"I won't say any more about it now," McNeal answered. "Wait a day or two."

Gaines leaned forward. "On the level, McNeal," he said, "who do you think killed King?"

The captain frowned. "I'm not saying anything," he told them, "until we have that girl here."

"You mean the 'unknown blond'?" jibed Gaines. "Don't make me laugh! There never was such a girl. Somebody down here made up that fairy tale!"

"She wasn't made up!" McNeal said stoutly. "And we're going to have her here." His expression was much like a small boy's in the face of tormentors.

BANNISTER felt that he wanted to change the subject. "Speaking of blonds," he said, "we've been talking to one—Denise Lang."

McNeal looked up, interested. "So she can talk now!" he exclaimed. "What did she tell you?"

"Not much. Didn't have a chance. Her father appeared on the scene—"

McNeal tapped the desk sharply with a lead pencil. "Say," he said, "did it strike you there is something queer about that bird?"

"There's plenty queer," Gaines put in indignantly, "about the way he treats reporters! I'd like to take a sock at him. Practically threw us out of the house!"

McNeal gave him a withering glance. "Well, that's too bad," he said tartly. "Maybe he's not so queer as I thought." He went on seriously, turning to Bannister. "Maybe you think we're not getting anywhere on this case, but we've done a lot of work. Lots of people involved. Have to talk to 'em and check their stories. Arthur Lang's

Electric Car Gives Way to Motor Bus in Texas

Fort Worth, Texas.—In much the same way that horse-drawn trolleys years ago gave way to electric cars, here, so the electric cars are giving way to motor buses.

Thirty per cent of the entire traction system of Fort Worth now is motorized. As electric trolleys wear out, they are replaced by buses, so that within a short while the entire system will be buses.

Fort Worth is the second large Texas city to inaugurate abandonment of electric cars. San Antonio already has entirely replaced electric trolleys with buses.

Cheaper operation of buses, lack of need of expensive trackage, and faster service are the reasons given for the transition.

Canoe Trip Ended With Tragic Death

Chester, Ill., Nov. 28—(AP)—Search is being conducted today for the body of Homer Dornier, Chicago, who apparently drowned in the Mississippi river Sunday when a canoe in which he was en route to the Gulf of Mexico, overturned.

Bob Rickey, also of Chicago, Dornier's companion on their projected trip, told residents along the river, three miles south of Chester, that he swam ashore for aid when the canoe overturned. Dornier remained in the water, clinging to the boat, he said.

When rescuers reached the scene they were unable to find either Dornier or the canoe.

The two Chicago men, left that city Nov. 5 on a canoe trip to the Panama canal.

kidnaping, was denied by Federal Judge H. H. Joyce today.

Court convened a half hour early that the case might go to the jury tonight. Immediately after Stewart's motion was denied George Sullivan, United States District Attorney, began his closing argument for the government.

ILLINOIS WELL UP IN RANKS IN WHEAT PROPOSAL

Fifty Five Per Cent Of Acreage Signed Up In Control Plan

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 28.—In spite of the fact that Illinois farmers already had reduced their acreage of all wheat 61 per cent since 1913, the state went even farther and took fifteenth place among all states in the percentage of wheat acreage signed up in the government's adjustment program, according to a report of the College of Agriculture Adjustment Administration.

Fifty-five per cent of the state's wheat acreage during the three-year period, 1930-1932, is signed up in contracts which are now going to Washington. These contracts will bring back an estimated $2,618,000 in benefit payments and increased buying power to Illinois farmers for reducing their acreage 15 per cent in 1934.

The first installment of 70 per cent will be payable as soon as contracts are sent to Washington and approved, and the remainder next spring. Platte county was the first one from Illinois to get its contracts to Washington, but those from other counties are following in rapid order, it was announced.

The equivalent of 80 per cent of the national average acreage for the three-year period, 1930-1932, was signed up in the acreage adjustment campaign, according to the Washington report. Adjustment payments to the nation's wheat farmers will total more than $100,000,000 on the basis of applications received, it was said.

The 570,263 farmers of the United States who signed applications control a total wheat acreage of 51,925,612 acres. When this acreage is reduced by 15 per cent in accordance with the wheat contracts, it will mean that a total of approximately 7,783,000 acres will be definitely taken out of 1934 wheat production.

The 55 per cent sign-up in Illinois compares favorably with the sign-up in the larger wheat states, especially since Illinois farmers have been adjusting their wheat acreage for a number of years, it was pointed out by officials. Kansas and North Dakota, the country's two leading wheat producing states, have 55 to 100 per cent of their three-year average acreage signed up. Nebraska, the third ranking wheat state, has a 75 per cent sign-up, Oklahoma, fourth in production, has 84 per cent; Montana, fifth, 95 per cent; Washington, sixth 78 per cent; South Dakota, seventh, 92 per cent; and Texas, eighth in production, 58 per cent.

Illinois leads its neighboring states, Missouri having a 52 per cent sign-up, Iowa and Kentucky, 47 per cent and Indiana 28 per cent.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY
New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: wheat decreased 1,941,000; corn increased 1,419,000; oats decreased 386,000; rye increased 545,000 barley increased 202,000.

W.F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

The important thing now is to sell these young cockerels as soon as they are mature.

In fact, if your breed of chickens matures at 6 pounds, it would be safer to sell the birds at 5 1-2 pounds, because once a chicken is mature it takes only about two weeks for it to become staggish.

And stags, of course, are worth only about half as much as soft-meat birds.

It is hard to understand, of course, how poultry prices can be so low, but these few sentences in a letter I have from a Boston produce merchant may help explain it:

"Beef," he writes, "is being sold at the lowest price in thirty years. Lamb is selling anywhere from 8 to 10 cents a pound. The retailers are featuring whatever product is lowest priced. Not one single chain store in Boston featured poultry this week end. And the requirements of the chain stores when they do not feature poultry are so light you could put them in your vest pocket."

As cheap as poultry is, meats are cheaper. And the majority of consumers still feel they must buy what is least expensive.

Why Ducks Are So Cheap
There is a peculiar situation in the duck market.

It has been over ten years ago that I began advising Middle Western farmers to get out of the duck business and leave it to people on Long Island who have special equipment and feed especially suitable for ducks. Much of this feed is fish, which is cheap.

Their ducks are ready to sell eleven weeks after they are hatched. And today they supply the demand for fine ducks.

Ordinarily farm-raised ducks are bought principally by foreigners, abiding people who now have little money to spend. That explains why this class of ducks is selling on the New York market for 8 cents a pound live.

It costs about 5 cents a pound to ship them and 1 cent has to be allowed for handling charges. So, from your standpoint they are practically worthless, because after these charges are taken off there is nothing left for you.

Small Geese Are Preferred
There has been a change in the demand for geese. Only a few years ago at this season, a 20-pound goose brought about 7 cents a pound more than a 10-pound bird.

These large geese were purchased mostly by Jewish laborers who used every ounce of the bird—the fat for cooking the liver for special dishes, etc. With industrial conditions as they are, the working class cannot afford such "luxuries."

So today a 10-pound goose is more desirable than a 20-pound bird, because the smaller bird is easier to sell.

Produce What Consumers Buy
Of course, the whole poultry situation is bad. We can't deny that. The only thing left to do this season is to get as much as possible out of your chickens by marketing them at the right time (before they are staggish).

The next year we will do well to give more consideration to what the consumers want when we plan our production program. The consumers are very independent. If we offer them what they want, they will buy it—if the price is right!

Because of the way this country has developed the consumers are, in every case, very far removed from the producers. So far removed that they give no thought to you—any more than you think when you buy an article in a store, whether or not the price you pay for it affords the people who worked to make it a living wage.

If it is what you want and does not cost too much, you buy it. It is the same with people who buy the chickens you raise.

Sincerely yours,
W.F. Priebe

CARING FOR PREGNANT EWES

(By Harold Heckman)

Winter management has a very important relation to the returns from the flock. The feeding of ewes should be such as will produce the most vigorous lambs and at the same time keep the wool in good condition. Leguminous hays, straw and corn stalks usually form the main part of an economical winter ration. Clover, alfalfa, or hay, if of good quality, may be used as the sole feed until near lambing time, from 3 to 3 1-2 pounds being sufficient for lambs weighing less than 150 lbs. Oat and wheat straw are better than rye or barley straw. The beard of the latter is likely to prove troublesome. Cornstalks placed where the ewes can eat leaves may be used as a part of the roughage ration. If this ration is made up largely of cornstalks or straw, a nitrogenous concentrate should also be used. Timothy hay is not a good sheep feed.

Such succulent feeds as roots or silage are desirable in keeping the ewes in good health. The use of silage will often materially reduce the cost of the ration, but silage cannot safely be used without any hay. Only silage from well-matured corn should be used for sheep, and caution should be exercised to guard against feeding spoiled, frozen, or moldy silage. It is not advisable to feed more than 3 pounds per head daily of this feed.

Ewes should be fed in addition to this roughage ration a certain amount of concentrated feed daily, at least two months before lambing. Some rations used and recommended by the University of Illinois are as follows:

RATION 1—Ten Ewes—
Corn silage—5 lbs.
Clover hay—7 lbs.

The same kind of heat that you need for the turkey—

You know—even, lasting heat—whether it is a matter of heating the house or roasting a turkey that is the kind of heat you want.

You can use Great Eagle for both purposes but for heating the house and not costing much to do it, this is the coal to use. It is a wonderful heater, doesn't have much ash and because of low mining and freight costs will make an attractive difference in your winter's coal bill. Try a load.

Pasture on cornstalks.
RATION 2—Ten Ewes—
Shelled corn—3 lbs.
Alfalfa hay—25 lbs.
Corn stover—7 lbs.
RATION 3—Ten Thin Ewes—
Shelled corn—5 lbs.
Whole oats—5 lbs.
Alfalfa hay—20 lbs.
Oat straw—8 lbs.

The ration which you choose depends upon the kind of feed available and the condition of your ewes.

Exercise Is Essential

If lambs are to be born strong and vigorous, a moderate amount of exercise is necessary for the ewes during the winter. This can be done by scattering their roughage over a field and allowing them to work back and forth over it while eating, or by feeding some of the roughage some distance from the shelter.

If winter pastures are used, no other arrangement for exercise is necessary.

At no time should the pregnant ewes be forced to wade through deep mud and snow, neither should they be chased by dogs, nor forced to jump over boards, nor to pass through narrow doors as such treatment is sure to cause loss of lambs, or of both ewes and lambs. If fleeces are allowed to become soaked with rain or wet snow, colds and pneumonia will be the result. Dry snow on the other hand, has no ill effect as the ewes readily shake it off. Sheep do not require as warm a shelter as do other animals, except during lambing period. A three-sided shed, open to the south, dry and free from cracks is ideal.

Farming Factors

CLEAN EGGS BETTER PRICES

Formerly Professor Poultry Extension Penn. State College

By P. L. Sanford

In spite of large storage stocks of eggs, clean fresh eggs are in strong demand.

Those who cater to particular markets, whether it be individual house wives, high class stores or what not, find that cleanliness of the eggs is a big factor. Furthermore, scientists have definitely proven that an egg produced clean has better keeping qualities than a soiled egg that has been washed and made clean.

Management has everything to do with producing clean eggs. Dry litter is essential, as most eggs become dirty from hens with soiled feet walking over the eggs. Recent surveys have revealed that the most favorable combination of litter and

Larger Supply Of Meat Animals On Farms Of State Seen

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 28.—Illinois' 140-million-dollar livestock industry is starting a new year of feeding operations with prospects of a larger supply of meat animals on the farm and at least some improvement in the demand for meats during 1934, according to the third quarterly agricultural outlook report just issued by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

These supply and demand factors will play a large part in determining how soon the livestock industry of the state gets back to a more normal basis, it was pointed out. Figures on livestock income during the past feeding season are not available, but on January 1, 1933, the livestock on farms of the state was valued at $139,312,000. In contrast, the farm value of Illinois livestock in 1932 was $185,364,000 and the gross income was $175,267,000, while in 1931 the farm value was $247,927,000 and the gross income, $236,366,000.

In terms of total live weight of beef cattle, hogs and sheep, the nesting material that will keep the eggs the cleanest consist of straw on the floor for litter and shavings for nesting material. Screening off the dropping boards so that hens cannot walk on them will do much in keeping eggs clean. Some poultrymen are even going to the extent of using wire runways made of hardware cloth or quarter inch mesh in front of the nests so that the hens before entering the nest must walk over the wire, which will do much toward scraping off accumulated dirt.

This is very effective on concealed nests wherein the hens enter the nests via the runway between the nests and the walls of the house. Some poultrymen will even go a step further and put a box of land plaster gypsum directly in front of the wire runway so that the hen must walk through this finely ground powder before entering upon the runway and going into the nest.

supply of meat animals on farms will probably be slightly larger at the beginning of 1934 than at the beginning of 1933, the outlook report says. It is likely that the increase in cattle numbers will more than offset a rather marked reduction in the number of hogs on farms and a slight decrease in the number of sheep and lambs. From January 1, 1932, to January 1, 1933, the supply of meat animals on farms, in terms of total live weight increased about 10 per cent.

The per-capita supply of meats and lard, measured in terms of dressed weight, obtained from Federally inspected slaughter during the first nine months of 1933 was 82.6 pounds compared with 77 pounds in the same period of 1932 and 78.1 pounds in 1931.

Whether the total inspected meat production in 1934 will exceed that of 1933 will depend largely upon whether the decrease in hog slaughter, as a result of the Federal corn-hog production control plan, will more than offset the almost certain increase in the slaughter of cattle and calves.

"Changes in expenditures for meats occur somewhat later than changes in consumer incomes. In view of this the maintenance of the present levels of employment and payrolls in 1934 probably would result in some improvement in the demand for meats during 1934. Substantial improvement in the demand for meats during 1934. Substantial improvement in the domestic demand for meats and lard during next year, however, will depend upon further increases in consumer buying power."

CHICAGO LIVE-STOCK, HAY AND GRAIN EXHIBITS

Will Open On Friday: Agriculture's Biggest World's Fair

Chicago.—(AP)—Chicago's world fair has closed up shop for the year, but agriculture's "world series" will soon move onto the scene to keep the farm world exhibition-minded for another big week.

Into the union stock yards, "America's butcher shop" will amble thousands of head of the continent's choicest beef, pork and veal on the hoof, to compete in the thirty-fourth annual International Live Stock exposition, starting December 1.

B. H. Heide, secretary-manager of the exposition, reports that several hundred more entries have been received than last year, which was a record-breaker.

Hay And Grain Show Too
For eight days there will be coronations of champions and grand champions in beef and dairy cattle, swine, horses and sheep; wheat and corn kings—for the International Hay and Grain Show is held in conjunction—and various champions among 4-H club boys and girls for their projects.

Coming each year the week following Thanksgiving, the Chicago exposition is the grand finale of the agricultural show season in North America.

It is the main event, through which hundreds of county and state fair champions move en route to the holiday-season tables of the country's finest hotels, railroad diners, and other high-class eating places.

Many Lands Represented

Increasing representatives of Canadian grain and livestock exhibitors will make this year's show more truly international than ever says Heide.

Farmers from seven Canadian provinces will exhibit in the crops department, draft horse will come from as far away as Saskatchewan and Ontario sheep herders have entered some of the largest flocks of purebred sheep to appear in the competitions.

More than 30 states of this country will be represented in the crops and livestock divisions. Fourteen states have entered sheep, draft horses will come from 11 states; shorthorn cattle from 19 states and Canada; Herefords from 14 states and Ontario, and Aberdeen-Angus from 12 states and Canada.

Expect 12,000 Animals

The task of judging the 12,000 head of prime livestock will be handled by a corps of 44 judges from 14 states, the District of Columbia, Ontario, Scotland and Argentina.

Officials say this year's show will see more draft horses on exhibition than at any time in the last decade. A spectacular feature of the draft horse show is the performance of ton-weight six-horse teams. Matinee and evening contests for riding and jumping horses, and indoor polo, will enliven the program.

Will you investigate our Accident Insurance Policy. No one can afford to be without it. Evening Telegraph.

10-W flows at 20° below zero, 20-W at 5° below. These oils circulate at the first stroke of the oil pump even in sub-zero weather. . . Provide easier starting. They have low viscosity at low temperatures. Cold does not make them sticky. They allow your motor to turn over easily. They are the easiest starting motor oils ever offered by Standard. . . Do not thin out dangerously under heat. Their viscosity (body) is so little affected by heat that except for slightly higher consumption they would be entirely safe to use in mid-summer. They protect your motor after it warms up. . . Will not sludge! Sludge forms faster in winter, and is more dangerous. It clogs filter screens, causes sticky valves, makes motors sluggish. This winter use Iso-Vis "D" and don't give sludge a chance.
